

MB closes 2008 with a turnover of €20m

MB, the eight year old Italian company making and marketing bucket crushers, finished the last financial year with a turnover of €20m, from share capital amounting to €400,000.

ABOUT 40% OF TURNOVER was derived from European markets and the remaining 60% from the rest of the world including Australia and New Zealand.

With share capital reaching €400,000, MB was able to change its status from a limited liability company (Srl) to a joint stock (S.p.A.) company. That had been the goal of CEO Guido Azzolin and directors Carla and Diego Azzolin for some years.

While MB already exports its bucket crushers to more than 100 countries, it moved to open a new branch in Germany in June. In the near future it has its sights set on other new branches in Australia, China, Brazil, India and the US.

At present in Australia, the company has substantial stocks of its bucket crushers, with prompt delivery available. Some second hand units are available too.

At the same time the company is soon moving to new premises in Fara Vicentino, Italy, including a larger warehouse and a more highly automated factory. It will also become its registered office while MB's commercial office will remain in Breganze.

At the recent Zaragoza demolition and recycling Fider 2009 exhibition in Spain, MB was presented with an award for the best technological invention. □
